THURSDAY, FEB. 12, 1880. THE COMING CANVASS IN TEN-NESSEE.

The political canvass in Tennessee this year is one of the most important in which we have ever engaged. It involves, not only our material, pecuniary prosperity, but also affects the good name and reputation of the people of the State, for fair, honest dealing and integrity. It is in the power of Tennesseeans this year to give the lie to give careful consideration to the by political demagogues who have in this number two articles which are in this number two articles which are well worth reading. That entitled "Agricultural Depression" admire that the agriculture of England is as by its illustrations which are prepared by the passing through a crisis of unprecessaries excetted a most powerful and beneficial influence upon the public mind.

The weight of its influence will always be found as a superson of the day, as well influence upon the public mind. to the slanders heaped upon them principal topics which are attracting a certain class of politicians, they competition, the land laws, and the

Tennesseeans have

Two years ago, many good men, who have the interest of the State at heart, were led, through party prejudices, to yield their support to a man for Governor, who was nominated upon a platform written by himself with the intent to deceive the masses. It was written in such a way as to admit of a double construction and satisfy equally, those who favored the payment of the State debt and those who were for its repudiation. We understand that there are those who think this thing will be accomplished again, and that harmony will be preserved in the Democratic ranks by running a candidate for Governor who can ride two horses the same time, facing different directions. There are hundreds of good men, we are sure, who can not be whipped into the support of any such a candidate. They are heartily ashamed of what they have done in the past, and have no idea of perpetrating another such blunder. But we are aware of the fact that they are not the men who usually manipulate political conventions, and the folly of two years ago may be repeated. If it is, will it be successful? We shall hope not. We trust there are enough Tennesseeans who appreciate the gravity of the situation, who think more of their State than they do of a party, and who are willing to do something to save before the world next November. A FRIEND, Moses G. Lea, Esq., asks why we dont "go for the bad roads." We admit that they need "going for" badly. It is no news to that we are cursed with the most miserable system of public roads that have ever afflicted a civilized LINCH ST. WEST OF GAY, NEAR CLISTON People. In fact, we have no system at all. If a man wants to entem at all. If a man wants to enthe most intolerable character, let him start out with a two horse wagon or a buggy and travel twenty-five miles in almost any given direction. It will test his patience to its fullest extent, and if he roturns without saying or thinking bad words he will be entitled to a chromo as the model man of his community.

their State from the disgrace of repudiation to set Tennessee right

But we have talked about these things, so often that we sometimes fear we may weary our readers. It is a subject that will bear agitation, however. It ought to be agitated. Good roads are about the best investment that East Tennessee can make. They will add to our convenience and to our wealth. Shall we have them?
